Echo of attack on Hassan BJP MLA's house

BJP marches to Raj Bhavan; holds State-wide protests

Opposition Leader B.S. Yeddyurappa and other BJP leaders submitting a memorandum to Governor Vajubhai R. Vala at Raj Bhavan this morning.

Bengaluru / Mysuru, Feb.14 (OSR)- Protesting against the attack on Hassan BJP MLA's residence, the BJP staged State-wide protests this morning. In Bengaluru, BJP leaders marched into Raj Bhavan and submitted a memorandum to the Governor.

The release of an 80-minute audio recording yesterday morning had repercussions on the streets of Hassan with JD(S) workers protesting outside BJP MLA Preetham Gowda's residence at Vidya Nagar. The situation soon turned violent in which one man was injured.

In the audio clip, a man, purportedly Preetham Gowda, is heard commenting on the health of JD(S) Supremo H.D. Deve Gowda and Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy, and doubting survival of the party. Preetham Gowda has claimed that the voice is not his.

Soon after the audio recording was released, angry JD(S) cadre gathered outside Preetham Gowda's house and a BJP worker suffered injury when an alleged JD(S) worker flung a stone at the house, sparking counter protests by the BJP even in the Legislative Assembly.

This morning, the BJP staged protests across the State and in Bengaluru, a BJP delegation led by Opposition Leader B.S. Yeddyurappa, accompanied by top party leaders, submitted a memorandum to Governor Vajubhai R. Vala at Raj Bhavan.

March of Mysuru

Mysuru's residents learnt with surprise not too long ago that the city was bestowed the tag of India's cleanest city. Earning the same rating second time in a row was no less surprising. The series of surprises yielded place to disappointment as the city slid to fifth rank on the count of cleanliness for the year 2017. The rating for the following year (2018) is awaited with great expectations of going on the victory stand once again. One must admit, however, the city's nearly 130 sq. km space is beyond the resources of the civic body to keep the entire city spic and span, thanks to the difficult-to-give-up habit of littering public places with gay abandon on the part of a large section of the city's population, in the august company of the floating population of the urban territory including those who come in as tourists and for trading activities, apart from kith and kin of local residents. The focus on cleanliness seems to have yielded place to heritage tag for the city just now.

The history of Mysuru spanning several centuries, as the kingdom of Wadiyar dynasty, believed to have been founded by Yaduraya in the year 1399 and its short history spanning the first half of the last century are as different as chalk and cheese. In the first part, the kingdom hosted mainly cultural prosperity while in the second part of the region's history, as is known to all who are familiar with subject, the kingdom became home to mainly economic prosperity, thanks to the rule of the then King and his Chief Executives (Dewans).

The virtually invisible hands of the then ruler of the Mysuru kingdom as well as the handful of illustrious Dewans cannot be described adequately in words of any language, let alone English. Old timers of the erstwhile kingdom can easily recall the names of mentors whose lifestyle was itself the guiding principles for people to follow in their journey of life. Their writings and public speeches delivered on many occasions and from various public platforms before their attentive audiences of common people are truly classic in content and wisdom. In such an ambience of bygone days, public figures commanding undiluted respect from all sections of society, life of people seem to have been marked by a sense of wellness, barring some aberrations.

The tragedy is not that Mysuru wears an image nowadays that provides a contrast to its past record praised by chroniclers in glorious terms but the tragedy is that its leading lights can once again assume the role of mentors to exhort the city's mix of ethnic profiles of residents to restore its past image. Where there is a will, there is a way !

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

People cannot propagate a great ideology by their knowledge, intellect or social status alone. They can effectively do it through their conduct. Human conduct gets purified by intuitional practices. You don't have to come from an exalted family, or have University degrees. Rather, these factors may create false vanity in one's mind, which may ultimately stand in the way of reforming one's conduct. In society, we see anti-social elements, and also feel a sense of frustration among the moralists. These moralists have therefore developed a tendency to go out of society. With more wealth and strength, antisocial elements are in an advantageous position, and the moralists appear to be the culprits. This state of affairs is not desirable and it should not continue.

Man disguises as woman to take exam

Bolivia: A male student was recently caught while trying to take the college entrance exam on behalf of a female applicant, by disguising himself as a woman.

19-year-old G. Bryan was a Systems Engineering student at the Universidad Mayor de San Miguel, but he tried to once again take the entrance exam at his college, this time on behalf of a female applicant.

To fool the university staff, he put on a wig, applied makeup on his face and dressed in women's clothing. Unfortunately, he was seated at the front of the exam hall where all the professors and assistants could see him, and because he looked more nervous than the other applicants, he quickly attracted their attention.

Asked why he tried to deceive the university, the 19-year-old said that he was contacted by a relative of the female applicant and was offered money to take exam on her behalf, because she was away.

Maintenance of Heritage Structures

Sir,

In recent times, there is a lot of hurt expressed at the rebuilding of heritage structures. Any structure has a defined lifetime, which can be extended with proper maintenance.

The basic question that arise is about the maintenance part of such structures, which calls for expenditures that can be high depending on their age.

Occasional painting of these structures is evident but no major repairs. Particularly the roofs call for attention as the plants that grow around the edges in the roofs can be highly hazardous as evidenced by roof collapses during rainy season, due to blocking of drain pipes by such plants.

Water retention on the roofs causes seepage in the buildings which aids in deteriorating of structures. While the heritage structures are boasted about, attention towards their maintenance is given the least importance makes a sad commentary.

Can the Authority concerned take note of this and take necessary actions as and when needed?

● MCC inks pact with ITC; distributes bags door-to-door for waste segregation

● Dry waste to be recycled at processing plants and re-used, generating revenue

Mysuru, Feb. 14 (MTY,SR& BCT)- For Multinational Company ITC Limited, rag-picking is a potential gold mine. For, it has entered into an agreement with the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) to segregate garbage at the point of generation and send them to recycling. The pact has been signed under 'WoW' (Well-being Out of Waste) project launched by ITC.

'WoW' is a flagship initiative that addresses the crucial issue of post-consumer waste management in line with the Government's 'Swachh Bharat' programme, ensuring proper segregation and recycling of waste in a manner that protects and restores the environment. It ensures cleanliness and hygiene of neighbourhoods and in the process creates sustainable livelihoods for a whole host of participants in the waste management process.

The ITC has successfully implemented 'WoW' in Bengaluru, twin cities of Hyderabad and Secunderabad and Khammam district of Andhra Pradesh, Coimbatore district of Tamil Nadu and parts of Chennai. As part of the project, eco-friendly multi-layered bags are being distributed to each house of all the 65 Wards of the MCC that has been divided into 9 zones.

The MCC has already completed the distribution of bags in Zone 6 and 7 and the project is being implemented by E Sree Foundation. Every type of waste — be it paper, metal, plastics, food and other wet contaminants — is put in the same dustbin and is rendered un-recyclable. ITC has launched 'WoW' to inculcate the habit of segregating waste and increasing the level of recycling garbage.

How does the project work?

ITC provides every house with a bag to put all the solid waste, including paper, metal and plastics. The kitchen and other wet waste are kept separately for disposal by Municipal authorities. Once in 10-15 days, 'WoW' team visits the households and collects recyclable waste and the garbage so collected is then transported to the junkyard where it is segregated and sent for re-use at reprocessing plants that in-turn generates revenue for ITC.

Two lakh bags

Speaking to Star of Mysore, MCC Health Officer Dr. D.N. Nagaraj said that MCC will distribute over two lakh bags provided by ITC in all 65 wards and more bags will be procured stage by stage. "One bag is being given to every house and we have successfully distributed bags to all houses in Zone 6 and 7 and the distribution in other zones is going on in full swing," he said.

As per the understanding, ITC is providing monetary incentives for Pourakarmikas for door-to-door collection of dry waste in such bags. ITC volunteers are distributing these bags to all houses, accompanied by supervisors and who are in turn monitored by ITC coordinators. Nagaraj said that ITC not only provides monetary benefits to waste collectors but also recycles the dry waste generating revenue.

Pamphlet distribution

Volunteers are also distributing pamphlets along with bags to create awareness among the residents about the project. "Waste segregation at source like keeping wet and dry waste separately helps in recycling of dry waste and composting of wet waste. This scientific methods of segregation reduces waste that reaches landfills and reduces air and water pollution. It also helps MCC take up different processes like composting, recycling, incineration of waste generated," said Dr. Nagaraj.

MCC has asked the residents to put all dry waste like plastic, paper, wood, glass, rubber, metal, multilayer plastic containers, packets etc., in the bags distributed by ITC and has asked them not to put wet waste like vegetable and fruit peel, food leftovers, expired food items, meat, bone, egg shell, flowers, tea bags, coffee powder, etc. in plastic bags as these waste are organic and could be composted.

Sanitary pads, diapers, ear buds, dental floss, medicines that have crossed the expiry dates, unused medicines, syringes and bandages have to be wrapped in papers and marked 'X' on it before disposing. Waste collectors will not collect any mixed waste except dry waste in bags given by ITC.

CALL HELPLINE

The MCC has also cautioned the public not to throw waste but segregate them at source failing which may lead to penalty as per the Solid Waste Management (SWM) Rules-2016. The civic body has asked the residents to call Helpline: 0821- 2440890, 2418800 or Mob: 94498-41195/6 if they have not received the bags or if waste collectors are not visiting their houses or if there are any other lapses in the project.

Garbage segregation: Each house closely watched; details entered

Mysuru, Feb. 14 (BCT)- The Mysuru City Corporation and the volunteers of E Sree Foundation are keeping an eye on each house for garbage segregation and they are making note of every garbage collection and disposal activity.

After distributing the bags provided by the ITC, Pourakarmikas, accompanied by volunteers, make it a point to enter details of every house and enter the details of dry and wet waste collected. They will not collect the mix waste (dry and wet) and will make the people present in the household to segregate the waste themselves.

Volunteers act as supervisors and enter the details in a handbook given to them. There are separate sections in the handbook and details including locked houses, the number of days it is locked, whether the residents are segregating dry and wet waste or if they are placing plastic bags filled with garbage in front of their houses for Pourakarmikas to collect.

"We are noting down minor details and will present the details to the MCC Council where the decision of levying fines on errant residents will be taken. We begin our work at 7 am and work till noon and we have been working since four months, said N. Ramesh, a volunteer whom Star of Mysore spoke with when he was at work in Gokulam this morning.

Volunteer N. Ramesh, who accompanied the Pourakarmikas during the door-to-door garbage collection at Gokulam 2nd Stage this morning.

E Sree Foundation has its office in Industrial Area in Bannimantap and all the volunteers have been given identity cards.

Volunteers are paid Rs. 250 a day for their work. Volunteers are monitored by coordinators and under each coordinator, there are six to 10 volunteers depending on the size of the Ward.

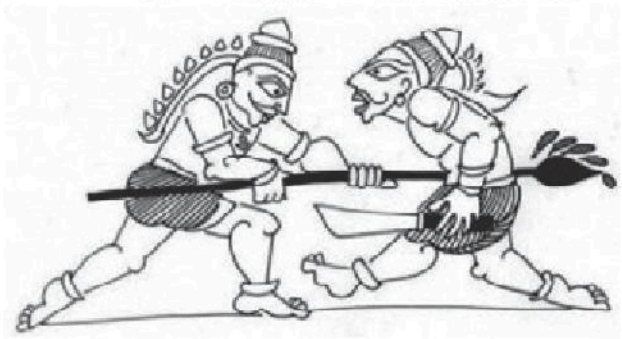
Dr. Devdutt Pattanaik - Author, Speaker, Illustrator, Mythologist

Institutionalising Mahabharata



We have ended up institutionalising Mahabharata through our electoral system, with every politician imagining himself or herself as a Pandava and branding his or her opposition as a Kaurava.

In the Ramayana, when Dashrath asks his son, Ram, to go into exile and Ram obeys, one wonders what is Ram's motivation. Is he obeying his father? Or is he taking an action that ensures that the integrity of the royal family is never questioned? In former, the reference point is the family. In the latter, the reference point is Ayodhya. In the former, it is about being a good son. In the latter, it is about being a good king. They are two different things, a subtle but sharp divide that is often overlooked.

When I look at the young crop of politicians in India, I see good sons but I do not see good kings. Everyone is working for their party. No one is working for India. What matters more than the development of India is the power for the party.

Hear the speeches carefully. Observe them carefully. They will all speak of poverty alleviation and of corruption and of wrongs done to their potential voters. And then they will blame the ruling party, whoever is in power, for all the terrible things that are happening to them. They promise change if voted to power. Change does happen: they come to power, but poverty remains, the corruption remains, and so do all the wrongs.

Then begins the next round of speeches, with young leaders of the opposition doing the very same thing. And those in power, quoting statistics of how they changed things, numbers that are rarely reflected in reality.

The electoral system we have chosen as a country has transformed into non-violent warfare. Every four years, two parties fight. One wins. The loser spends the next four years mocking the rulers and doing everything in its power to block activities of the rulers and to oppose them at every moment. This is done to ensure the rulers lose the next elections.

And the winners spend all the time working towards the next election, hoping to secure the next term. This means, not allowing any developmental activity to take place in Constituencies where the voters elected the Opposition, and using their power to generate funds, often by nefarious means, to reward party workers and give their party the money-power needed to fund the next elections.

In all this, India really does not matter. What matters is fighting and winning elections. So young politicians give rousing speeches and lead marches with the sole intention of defeating their opponents. Do we hold politicians responsible for this or the design of our electoral system? Inbuilt in our version of democracy is fighting. Fights, even non-violent ones, are never good.

Ultimately, we have to live in the same house, share the resources, even with our worst enemies, because everyone is an Indian. Somewhere along the line, a warped system is emerging thanks to our election system. We have ended up institutionalising Mahabharata through our electoral system, with every politician imagining himself or herself as a Pandava and branding his or her opposition as a Kaurava. It is all about kicking brothers out of the house, denying them resources, because they oppose us. All is done in the name of the family. And that is not good for the household that is India.

Home-coming for Kuvempu's son

Mysuru, Feb.14 (NNN)- Rashtrakavi Kuvempu's second son Kokilodaya Chaitra, who is settled in Australia, visited his father's house 'Udayaravi' recently and spent precious moments recalling his younger days.

Chaitra, as he is fondly called, 78, after completing his engineering from BMS Engineering College, Bengaluru, was working in HMT. He left India when he was posted as the Head of Sales and Service Centre of HMT in Melbourne.

Kuvempu's son-in-law Dr. K. Chidananda Gowda, former Vice-Chancellor of Kuvempu University, speaking to Star of Mysore here this morning said, "Chaitra visits Mysuru once in two or three years. This time when he came, he wanted to walk up to his aunt's house on Kalidasa Road which is on the same road as Udayaravi. She is the sister of Kuvempu's wife and mother of Krupakar (of the famous wildlife photographers Krupakar-Senani duo)."

Chaitra and his wife Marlene, who walked on the road were very disappointed as they found it very difficult to negotiate the stretch with cars and two-wheelers parked on both sides and hardly any footpath. "They told me how much Mysuru has changed. It is very sad that pedestrians are completely ignored and there is no place for them to walk unlike in Melbourne where there is so much of space for pedestrians to walk," said Dr. Gowda.

Recalling the time when Chaitra had called Kuvempu, when he had an offer from an Australian company, to ask what he should do, Dr. Gowda said that Kuvempu had asked him (Chaitra) to serve the nation by continuing to work for HMT and not be tempted by the four times higher salary that was offered to him.

Chaitra continued to work in HMT till it was shut down and then joined a private firm from where he retired in 2014.

Kuvempu had four children Poornachandra Tejaswi, Kokilodaya Chaitra, Indukala and Tarini. Out of the four, Tejaswi and Indukala have passed away.

"Kuvempu believed in rebirth and always felt that Chaitra was reborn after the passing away of his (Kuvempu's) father because before that his father would always appear in his dreams and after Chaitra was born the dreams ceased. He has recalled this in his autobiography 'Nenapina Doniyali' and also revealed how Chaitra as a one-and-a-half or two-year-old, on reaching Kuppalli had immediately said 'mane banthu, mane banthu,' proving his strong faith that he (Chaitra) must be his father's reincarnation as otherwise how could a two-year-old who had never seen his grandfather's place identify the house," said Dr. Gowda.

Asked how Kuvempu reacted to Chaitra marrying an Australian, Dr. Gowda said that when he (Chaitra) told his father that he was going to marry Marlene, all Kuvempu said was that he had no objection and he was responsible for his decision and all he could do was bless the couple.

Marlene, who retired as a Registrar working in a University in Melbourne, is very fond of photography. She has won several awards in photography competitions around the world.

"Photography is Marlene's hobby. This time she visited Mysore Zoo and took pictures. She and Chaitra drove via Kanakapura and visited Somanathapura temple and took photographs there before reaching Mysuru. She also hired an autorickshaw and went to Paduvarahalli, and a few other places and took photographs of women milking the cows," said Dr. Gowda.

Chaitra and Marlene, who have a daughter Shivani, are in Bengaluru now and will be returning to Melbourne shortly.

Proposed Road, Railway projects in Kodagu

'HC has only ordered to maintain status quo'

Mysuru, Feb. 14 - The Karnataka High Court has not issued a stay to the proposed Railway and Highway projects in Kodagu but has only directed the State Additional Advocate General and Special Public Prosecutor to maintain status quo pending disposal of the petitions filed by Coorg Wildlife Society against the destructive projects.

The Coorg Wildlife Society filed petitions in the HC questioning implementation of Railway lines between Thalassery-Periyapatna and Mysuru and Mysuru-Kushalnagar-Madikeri and Mangaluru and also the widening of National Highway 275 that passes through Kodagu from Mysuru via Kushalnagar, Suntikoppa and Madikeri to reach Sampaje in Dakshina Kannada.

Reacting to reports that the High Court has granted a stay on the petitions, Coorg Wildlife Society President K.C. Biddappa said that the Court has only asked the State Additional Advocate General to maintain status quo till further notice and did not grant a stay.

Meanwhile, former President of Coorg Wildlife Society Col. C.P. Muthanna has said that he had spoken to the High Court advocate and was informed that the oral direction given by the HC was as good as a stay order and hence he had used the words 'stay order.'

The project implementing authorities cannot move even a brick till the case is disposed of or till further notice as told to the State Additional Advocate General and Special Public Prosecutor by the High Court.

However, Biddappa's contention is that since the news of 'status quo' had already appeared in January this year where was the need for repeating the same news with a new phrase 'stay order'?

Forest Department to take over Sulwadi Temple land

Officials push for survey to reclaim over 2 acres of land excluding Temple, a part of Tiger Reserve

Yedukondalu

Mysuru, Feb. 14 (MTY&BCT)- The land around Kichuguth Maramma Temple at Sulwadi village in Hanur Taluk in Chamarajanagar District will be part of a Tiger Reserve soon and the Forest Department will write to the authorities concerned for a survey of the land.

The Maramma Temple hit headlines in December last year after 17 persons died when they were served poison-laced prasadam at the Temple by perpetrators who wanted to settle scores with the Temple Management.

Four persons — Junior Seer of Saluru Mutt at Male Mahadeshwara Hill Immadi Mahadevaswamy alias Devanna Buddhi, who is also the President of the Maramma Temple Trust, Ambika, the Secretary of the Temple, her husband Madesha and Temple Priest Doddaiah Tambadi – have been arrested and are at present facing trial from inside the prison.

Soon after the tragedy broke, questions were raised as the Temple came within the boundaries of the Yedyarahalli Forest in Ramapura Range, which is part of the M.M. Hills Wildlife Sanctuary (soon to be declared as Cauvery Wildlife Sanctuary and Tiger Reserve) and hence all non-forestry activities are prohibited by law.

Speaking to Star of Mysore this morning, Male Mahadeshwara Wildlife Division Deputy Conservator of Forests V. Yedukondalu said the land on which the Temple stands is forest area.

"The two acres of land excluding the Temple structure will be taken over by the Forest Department under the Wildlife Act and provisions of Karnataka Forest Department Act. The area will be declared as a Tiger Reserve soon and a survey will be conducted in the area," he said.

"Initially, only 20 cents of land was granted to the Temple that includes a walkway for the devotees. Gradually, the Temple area expanded and more than two acres of forest land was occupied. "We have written to the authorities of Mysore Working Plan to conduct the survey of the land to demarcate the Temple and forest land boundaries so that the Department can take over the land for Project Tiger," Yedukondalu added.

The Temple authorities did not seek permission from the Forest Department for the expansion and to construct a Gopuram for which the foundation stone was to be laid on Dec. 14 and where the poisoned prasadam was distributed.

Many human-inhabited areas at Hanur, Ramapura, Male Mahadeshwara Hills, Palar, P.G. Palya, Hoogyam and Bailur come under Male Mahadeshwara Wildlife Sanctuary. There are more than 50 temples in the area and the Forest Department has no control over the land, thanks to influential persons who encourage holding festivals in forest land, disturbing the wildlife habitat.

Over the years, proliferating religious shrines in protected areas has become a problematic area for the Department. A case in point is Beladakuppe Temple in the core area of Bandipur where tens of thousands of people come to the shrine during November/December every year for Jathra Mahotsava.

Wildlife activists said that shrines inside the protected areas attract a large number of people and during Jathras, mass feeding is arranged. The leftovers and waste attract carnivores which get habituated to human presence and they enter human habitats in search of food, increasing man-animal conflicts.

Addressing the protesting party workers, City BJP President Dr. B.H. Manjunath claimed that the audio clip on the purported attempts of the BJP to poach Congress-JD(S) MLAs released by CM H.D. Kumaraswamy was fake and was solely aimed at maligning the BJP.

Terming the attackers as JD(S) goons, Manjunath demanded the arrest of all the culprits. In a reverse of fortunes, Rishi Reddy stepped up his game and playing attacking and attractive tennis on both the flanks, took the second set in a interesting tie-break 7-6 (11-9).

'Personality is defined by service to society'

Mayor Pushpalatha Jagannath, Corporators R. Nagaraj, SBM Manju, Satish and Ramesh, who were felicitated at Kattemane Vokkaliga Rama Mandira premises on K.R. Hospital Road on Tuesday, are seen with former MLA Vasu and others.

Mysuru, Feb.14 (MK&US)- "Our personality is defined by the service rendered to the society," opined former MLA Vasu.

He was speaking after inaugurating a felicitation function organised by Kattemane Vokkaliga Rama Mandira at its premises on K.R. Hospital Road here on Tuesday.

Vasu recalled that several development works had been done during his tenure but asserted that he does not want to take credit for them as his seniors had rendered much more service to society. He contended that all representatives of people were just symbolic and contribution of any such individual is just a relative factor.

He regretted that caste has become a prime deciding factor in politics and unfortunately even votes cast is dependent on that factor. He contended that social work should be beyond the framework of any caste.

Mayor Pushpalatha Jagannath, Corporators R. Nagaraj, SBM Manju, Satish and Ramesh were felicitated on the occasion.

Rama Mandira Vice-President S. Somanna, former Corporators B.K. Prakash, M. Shivanna and others were present.

Primary School teachers to take out protest rally on Feb.16

Mysuru, Feb.14 (RKB& US)- The District unit of State Primary School Teachers Association will take out a protest rally in city on Feb. 16 to urge the government to initiate the transfer process at the earliest.

Disclosing this at a press meet at Patrakarthara Bhavan here yesterday, Association District General Secretary Somegowda said that the rally would commence from Maharaja's College Grounds and proceed to the DC's office where a memorandum addressed to the Chief Minister would be submitted to the DC.

The transfer process has been held up for the last three years for election and other reasons which had inconvenienced many teachers. The process should be restarted in June. The serving teachers have been deprived of promotion as direct recruitment has been initiated. Hence, conditional promotions for serving teachers should be started, said Somegowda.

Association officer-bearers Basavaraj, Y.K. Nagaraj, Mahesh, Mamatha, Kousalya and Babita Rani were present at the press meet.

WORD OF THE DAY

Ratiocination

Pronunciation: Rat-ee-oh-suh-NAY-shun.
Meaning: The process of exact thinking, reasoning.

Origin: Edgar Allan Poe is said to have called the 1841 story "The Murders in the Rue Morgue" his first "tale of ratiocination." Many today agree with his assessment and consider that Poe classic to be literature's first detective story. Poe didn't actually use ratiocination in "Rue Morgue," but the term does appear three times in its 1842 sequel, "The Mystery of Marie Roget." In "Marie Roget," the author proved his reasoning ability (ratiocination traces to ratio, Latin for "reason" or "computation"). The second tale was based on an actual murder, and as the case unfolded after the publication of Poe's work, it became clear that his fictional detective had done an amazing job of reasoning through the crime.
Example: Ratiocination is a trained, disciplined procedure of arriving at truth.

THE ODD WORD

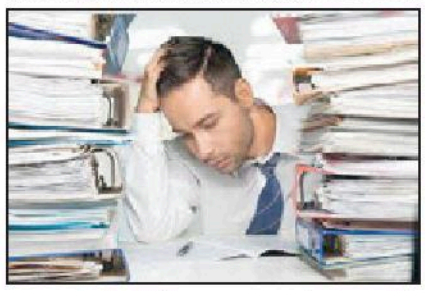
Razzmatazz

Any showy or exciting display.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Red tape

Meaning: Mechanical adherence to bureaucratic rules and regulations especially those involving unnecessary paperwork.



Origin: Legal and official documents have been bound with red tape since the 17th century and continue to be so. "The Map upon the Backside thereof sealed with his Excellency's Seal at Arms on a Red Cross with Red Tape." We now usually mean fussy or unnecessary bureaucracy when we refer to 'red tape'. The first record I have of it being used in that sense is from The pleader's guide, 1796. This spoof verse, purporting to be the work of John Surrebutter (a deceased barrister) was a satire on the fussiness of English law. This is part-way towards a metaphorical usage of the term, albeit still clearly referring to actual lawyer's red-tape.
Example: There was so much red tape surrounding the investigation that the inspector couldn't get in to look at it until all of his papers were cleared.
